

Online Discussion Rubric

Online discussion enhances learning by allowing people to share ideas, perspectives, and experiences with the entire class. You develop and refine your own thoughts through the writing process while broadening your classmates' understanding of the course content.

	10	5	0
Frequency	≥ 3 posts during week. First post by Wednesday 10 pm.	≥ 1 post per week. First post by Thursday 10 pm.	0 posts or posts all at end of week.
Content	Posts are well-developed contributions to discussion, are factually correct, and reflect upon the posts of others.	Posts meaningfully contribute to discussion.	Posts are off-topic, factually incorrect, or lack depth (such as "good point").
Sources	Correctly cited references to a variety of course readings.	Occasional cited references to course readings.	No clear references to course readings.
Style	Correct spelling, punctuation, grammar. Writing is concise, specific, and direct.	Generally correct spelling, punctuation, grammar. Writing is usually concise, direct, and specific.	Frequent writing errors.